NAPANEE, SATURDAY, APRIL 1.

HORRIBLE MURDER.

On Tuesday morning the town of Napanee was thrown into a state of terrible excitement by one of the most cowardly and atrocious murders that has ever disgraced the annals of the criminal records of this Province. At first the report which gained circulation, about 9 A.M. that a young lady had been killed at the Tichborne House, was not only credited, and many treated it by without heeding the rumor; but as the report was confirmed, and the horrible atrocity of the deed was disclosed, the interest became intense, the excitement increasing until the man who [illegible]

RETIRING FROM THE RETAIL BUSINESS.

We reiterate our statement published in last week's papers, that Mr. Hinch having completed arrangements to enter into the wholesale trade in Manitoba, OUR ENTIRE STOCK IS OFFERED FOR SALE, and is now being disposed of at TREMENDOUS BARGAINS.

Our business will be closed up with the least possible delay, so that any person wishing to save money in buying their spring supplies should not miss this opportunity.

Our Grand Spring opening on Saturday (the largest we have ever had), must have demonstrated the fact beyond a doubt that we are showing the largest range of the finest goods throughout every department to be found in the country.

On Wednesday, the first day of the sale, 183 people, notwithstanding the bad roads, availed themselves of the opportunity of saving, and thus making, considerable money. Some very large parcels were sold. Our Stock is so large that it will bear a very large run for several days.

CARPETS. CARPETS.

Parties from a distance visiting our opening remarked that our display of Carpets was as large and select as could be found in Toronto or Montreal, and everybody acknowledged that so fine a selection of French, English and Scotch Tweeds were never before exhibited in this part of the Dominion.

What an opportunity then is given to every family to supply its members with complete Spring Costumes, from top to toe, at COST PRICE. What an opportunity to furnish the house with anything it may require at Cost.

COTTONS.—The Celebrated Horrockse's Steam Looms at Cost. Ducks at Cost, Shirtings at Cost, Tickings at Cost, the finest stock of New Dress Goods at cost, Prints at Cost, fine Silks and Satins at Cost, Cashmeres at Cost, Millinery, Feathers, Ribbons at Cost. Men's and Boys' Hats at Cost. Suits of Clothes at Cost.

Everything throughout our establishment, without any reserve whatever, at Cost.

Goods will be sold by the yard, by the half piece, by the piece, by the shelf-full—any way to dispose of them in the shortest time.

Sugar Social.
There will be a sugar social at Bethany M. E. Church on Wednesday evening, April 5th, 1882. Proceeds to be applied on minister's salary. Music, refreshments and speeches. Admission 20 cents. All are cordially invited.

Portfolio, Delineator for April, at Perry & Madden's.

Police Court.
On Tuesday James Sheehan appeared, charged with being drunk and disorderly. He acknowledged the crime and was fined $2 and cost—$5.20. Mr James Moss goodnaturedly went his security until Saturday. A charge of assault was also filed against Jimmy by a publican, but as the prosecutor failed to appear the case was dismissed. This has been a dull week at the justice mill. Daniel Patton was charged with being drunk and disorderly and fined $1 and costs.

Suicide.
The Kingston News has information that John Kennedy, who lived about a mile east of Parham, committed suicide on Tuesday by taking a dose of strychnine. He got up in the night, telling his wife he wished to take some camphor, as he felt ill; becoming alarmed at the long absence of her husband, the woman made a search, and found him down stairs in an unconscious state. No cause can be assigned for the act, as he was in comfortable circumstances and apparently quite healthy.

Parties having Magazines to bind can have them done in first-class style, by leaving them at Perry & Madden's.

Spring.
Mr J. Robinson and Miss Phalen, of Downey & Co's, have just returned from the markets where they have been making extensive purchases of dry goods, millinery, etc., and the stock of the establishment will be complete in a few days, as goods are already arriving. Miss Phalen has secured all the latest novelties in her line, and invites the ladies' attention. Mr. Walters has the finest assortment of Scotch, English and Canadian tweeds to be found in the market. Call on Downey & Co.

The night of meeting has been changed from Monday to Tuesday.

Cricket.
The annual meeting of the Napanee Cricket Club will be held at the Tichborne House, at 8 o'clock, this (Friday) evening, for the election of officers and making other arrangements for the coming season. A full attendance of those interested in the good old English game is requested. The prospects for the coming season are excellent. Mr. G. E. Mayhee, who has recently started business here, is one of the best bats in Canada and the club will receive other additions which will add very materially to their strength in the field. Indeed the prospects of the club never were more favorable.

Blank Books and Stationery, at lowest prices, at Perry & Madden's.

A Reminiscence.
The murder of Tuesday calls to mind another tragedy which occurred in the same barn about the year 1861, when the hotel was kept by [illegible] Davy. A man named Sweetlove, agent for the Joseph Hall Manufacturing Company, was roped in by a gang of sharpers and fleeced of all his money, which so weighed upon his mind that he went to the barn and with a rope hung himself from a beam [illegible] along the wall. The deliberation with which he carried out his purpose was shown by the fact that when found his knees were bent so that his feet would not reach the floor and prevent strangulation.

Accidental Death.
On Saturday last, Mr. Lewis Asselstine, carpenter, Napanee, met with an accident which resulted in his death on Monday. He was engaged shingling a shed in the rear of Messrs. Pringle and Ash's shop, on the market square, and was walking along the roof near the eave when he tripped on a shingle and fell headlong to the ground. It was soon apparent that he had sustained serious internal injuries, as he continued to throw up blood, and on Monday about 8 a.m., he expired. He leaves a numerous family and a large circle of friends to mourn his death. He was a gentleman widely known and universally respected.

Obituary.
The sturdy race of pioneers whose struggles and endurance wrested this portion of the country from a state of primeval wilderness, are rapidly passing away, and soon they will be known only in the records of former days. On Wednesday, March 29th, Wm Scott, of the township of Richmond, passed quietly and peacefully to his reward, after a life of eighty-seven years spent in works of usefulness. He was born in the year 1794, near the Napanee Mills, within two miles of where he died; he lived on the one farm near Monk's bridge, for a period of sixty years. He served with distinction in the war of 1812, for which he enjoyed a pension from the Government. His wife died about ten years ago. He was the father of eleven children, ten of whom survive him.

Mr. Robert Gibson, who has for a long time been in the employ of Douglass Hooper, Esq., of Newburgh, as miller, died on Wednesday night after only a week's illness. He was attacked with congestion of the lungs, aged about forty years. He was an industrious, upright man, and possessed the confidence and esteem of all his acquaintances. The funeral is announced to take place on Saturday at 2 p. m., and will be conducted under Masonic auspices.

Finest Ladies Purses in town, at Perry & Madden's.

A Large Establishment.
On a recent visit to Tamworth we called upon Mr. L. Way, merchant of the village, and were agreeably surprised to see the extent of the business he carries on. He has a commodious store and premises, and every facility for the transaction of a large business. His stock of dry goods is replete with the latest styles and fashions, and is larger than will be found in many stores in places twice the size; in fact, he keeps a full line. He is at present completing arrangements for adding dressmaking and millinery to his other departments, which will make his business complete. Mr. Way does a large trade in ready-made clothing, of which he keeps an enormous stock. His grocery department is second to none in the county. He also keeps a full assortment of crockery, china and glassware. In the rear of the store is a grain warehouse with facilities for doing a large business. Mr. Way informs us that he purchases great quantities of grain, paying good prices, so that there is no advantage in farmers hauling their produce to the front. We were astonished at the magnitude of Mr. Way's business; the people of Sheffield should be proud of possessing so enterprising a man and should give him every encouragement by hearty patronage.

Something that is Needed.
While some of the large establishments in the town of Napanee have more business than they can attend to, the less pretentious places in the villages of the country find their legitimate trade being constantly drawn away from them. The latter know that it is not because their larger competitors sell at smaller margins or keep a better quality of goods and some of them begin to realize the fact that this state of affairs is largely attributable to the fact that the business men of the town are more enterprising in placing their wares before the public and announcing themselves through the press of the county. Mr Henry Paul, of Newburgh, with considerable enterprise has started out with a view of reversing the order of things. He says he can sell cheaper than larger competitors who are under enormous expense; he keeps the very best and latest goods in the market; he sells at close figures and is determined to let those who should be his patrons know that he can do as well by them as any person. He presents his first advertisement in this issue and we advise all our readers to scan it closely. If more of our country merchants would follow his example we would not hear so much complaint about villages "going to the dogs." The Beaver has a larger circulation than all the papers published in the county combined; take advantage of its columns to make your business known.

OFFICE OF THE

NAPANEE AGRICULTURAL

W—O—R—K—S!

A N N U A L C I R C U L A R !

In this, my forty-second annual circular to the farming community of Eastern Ontario, I desire to return hearty thanks for the liberal patronage bestowed upon me during that long period of business relations with the public and to announce that it is not my intention to retire from the agricultural implement business, as has been stated by jealous agents of less successful manufacturers, but this season to increase the volume of my business, and make several important improvements in the different machines I manufacture.

The past year was one of the most successful we have yet had, and we are pleased to know that it was equally favorable to the faithful tillers of the soil. This year promises to be even more profitable to all parties, and we, therefore, have made provision for a large increased demand for all kinds of farming machinery.

The new and important improvements effected in the "Queen of the Harvest" Reaper place it without a rival as a light and durable harvester. In the other machines we manufacture, equally marked improvements will be found.

We never were in a better position to meet demands upon us and give perfect satisfaction, therefore, we solicit with confidence your orders.

Respectfully yours, [illegible]

Napanee, March, 1882.

FOR CLARA'S SAKE.

CHAPTER XXXV.

PERCY'S LETTER.

Herbert's sleep that night was as the sleep of a child. So bright and cheery was he the next morning that Mr. Roden, who had slept ill—as he always did, he said, out of his own bed—was greatly aggravated by it.

"That young man," he privately observed to Mr. Oldcastle, "will get on in the world; he takes the [illegible] of other people so uncommonly [illegible]."

"It is possible he is only doing his best to keep up his cousin's spirits," suggested the lawyer.

"It is possible, of course; but I don't think he would be quite so cheerful if his own fortune was in danger; and as for doing his best, it is my experience that nobody does more than his second best, at the very most, for other people."

The lawyer only smiled grimly; but what he thought to himself was "Now this gentleman, though he looks older than Herbert, and I fancy is a deal older than he looks, was certainly born after the Fall."

For his own part Mr. Oldcastle was not depressed, for as we know, he entertained no such misgivings as his young friend, and, on the whole, the day, though one of suspense, passed not unpleasantly.

"For my part," said Miss Darrell, severely, "I have eaten next to nothing; I felt as if every mouthful would choke me."

"Then my dear madam," returned the social philosopher, "try drinking. It is unusual to take it with dessert, but there is nothing like dry Champagne like this for restoring— Dear me! what does he say, Mr. Newcastle?"

For just at that moment the waiter had brought in a letter and placed it in the lawyer's hands.

"Well it is not satisfactory; no, I am afraid not," said the other, with a rapid glance at the contents of the missive. "This is what Mr. Percy Fibbert writes—

"'MY DEAR SIR,—I lose no time in replying to your very surprising communication. With respect to the town clock having struck midnight before we left the supper table, on the occasion of the sad event to which you refer, I can not say that I have any recollection of that circumstance.'"

"Very judicious of him," observed Mr. Roden, grimly; "next to a good memory, there is nothing like a convenient want of it."

[illegible]

Clara, [illegible]—"That is exactly what I would have had you do, but [illegible]."

"[illegible] there is nothing [illegible] could [illegible] for you," [illegible] the lawyer, gently. "Unhappily, you yourself have put it out of my power to serve you [illegible]. There [illegible] too late, of what you are compelling me to do. I do not [illegible] Mr. Roden [illegible] I say nothing [illegible] of a conspiracy to defraud you of your rights, though as I am a living man I believe it to be so. But, at the very least, you are about to impoverish yourself for a scruple. As for defending your father's memory, who impugns it? A son in every way unworthy of him."

"True; but still his son. The world, which knows only their relationship, must needs believe [illegible]. With my consent it shall never hear it. Spare me, good friend, and go."

"Very good, then I have no alternative."

He stooped down, and, as she buried her pale face in her hands, kissed her forehead in farewell. "If you had been my client, Miss Darrell, we should have managed matters better," he said.

"Don't speak of it," murmured the little old lady; then whispered in his ear, "You will make terms for her; you will save something for her out of the fire?"

He shook his head. "It is all or nothing, my dear madam; still, I will do my best."

Herbert accompanied him from the room.

"You were right," said the lawyer, "and I was wrong. That man Percy is at the bottom of this."

"It is no matter now who is to blame. I [illegible] taken the course I foresaw she would."

"Ay, and that involves the loss of your fortune."

"Hush; remember your promise; it is not mine but hers, since this was to be; I am glad, at all events, that suspense is over."

As they passed by Mr. Roden's room they saw through the open door certain indications of departure; one-third of the male staff of the hotel domestics were occupied in packing his portmanteau under the immediate supervision of the proprietor. "Be very careful of that bottle of hair-wash, William—eh, Robert is it?—quite right, I never call people out of their names; and, Thomas—it is Thomas, is it not?—be sure you don't put those brushes back to back. Good heavens!"

WILDE ACRE FARM, PLUM COULEE,

NEAR THE TOWN OF MORRIS,

COUNTY OF MANCHESTER,

CONTAINING

THREE HUNDRED AND TWENTY ACRES, of which 200 acres are cultivated, 125 acres ready for the harrow, and 50 acres in pasture, fenced, including the following grain, etc., stock and implements, besides household furniture:

1000 bushels of wheat,	2 sulky ploughs,
500 bushels of oats,	1 Osborne self-binder,
100 bushels of barley,	1 seeder,
50 bushels of potatoes,	3 sets double harness,
15 tons of hay,	2 sets single harness,
1 year's firewood,	Lumber waggon,
6 horses and two colts,	Buggy,
8 cows and 1 steer,	Cutter,
1 fine Berkshire boar (imported),	Ploughs,
	Harrows,
6 store hogs,	And, in fact, all that is
20 spring pigs,	necessary to run a first-
Hens, etc.,	class farm economically.

One of the finest Farms ever placed in the Market. One and a-half miles from Red River shipping post. It has few equals in Manitoba.

Owing to the proprietor of the above farm not being able to give it the attention a No. 1 Farm requires, on account of the demand on his time for other business engagements, he has determined to dispose of the same, if he is offered what he considers only a moderate price for such an exceptionable farm, namely, $12,000.00.

THE FOLLOWING IS THE HISTORY OF "WILDE ACRE FARM."

The proprietor, Mr. George C. Wilde, came to the Province of Manitoba in the year 1874, for the purpose of settling. He travelled the country far and wide, and finally selected a site, which he thought surpassed anything he had seen, and he here he pitched his tent, and has ever since (6 years) tilled the soil in that place. The land is beautifully rolling (an exception in Manitoba), Plum Coulee, with its high banks, passing through it, which provides unfailing water the year round. The house and stable are comfortable and commodious, suitable for Manitoba climate, and are situated on a beautiful slope of the above mentioned Coulee, commanding a fine view of the surrounding country.

References kindly permitted to John R. Scott, Esq., and Dr. Clark, Napanee, both of whom are personally acquainted with the premises.

Terms—$500.00 cash, and the balance on time to suit the purchaser, with interest at 7 per cent.

Title clear, with immediate possession.
